Circle for reconciliation

What role do employers have in reconciliation? CCDI is pleased to host a Circle for Reconciliation, which will take participants through the Commission's recommendations related to the workplace, share locally relevant issues around Indigenous inclusion, and provide examples of ways employers can work toward meaningful reconciliation. Centennial Certificate in Leadership and Inclusion

The Centennial Certificate in Leadership and Inclusion is a leadership development certificate program designed for managers, leaders, HR, diversity professionals, and individual contributors. It applies diversity and inclusion practices to leadership issues in the workplace. We developed this program to support individuals who work as diversity professionals. It is valuable for organizations that want to improve team performance, foster innovation and build inclusive leadership. Learn more...

Talking to Canadians – CCDI's podcast

Talking to Canadians is a podcast that strives to tell the unique and diverse stories of Canadians. CCDI's Founder & CEO, Michael Bach, sits down with people from a wide variety of backgrounds and dives into their unique, lived experiences, to share what connects us as Canadians. With guests such as Khadija Waseem, Kevin Rempel, and Marni Panas, you won't want to miss it! Available on Apple Podcasts, Google Play, Soundcloud, and Spotify. Learn more...

2019 Western Employer Initiative of the Year: Tolko Industries – Leadership Impact for Women

by MacKenzie Pudwell

2019 Western Employer Initiative of the Year: Tolko Industries – Leadership Impact for Women

Tolko Industries is a family owned and operated company that opened its doors in the 1950s. This family orientation drove the values of respect and integrity through the organization, business model and inevitably led to the development of diversity and inclusion initiatives in the workplace. Tanya Wick, Vice President of People & Services spoke with us about Tolko’s D&I work and their program, Leadership Impact for Women. Learn more...
